HAMMARLUND MANUAL LIST

I would suggest using the manual entitled "The HQ-180 and 180-A Series of Communications Receivers" (Hammarlund publication 52787-1) and using the schematic "HQ-180A." The HQ-180AX is a somewhat different receiver and has its own schematic in that manual.

Definitive alignment info for the Hammarlund HQ-180A

The photo of the HQ-180A in the manual shows that the BANDSPREAD and MAIN TUNING capacitors are covered with two metal boxes. Mine has none. If this is a serious omission I am sure I can fabricate one. Oddly I am not finding any references to those boxes anywhere on the internet and the only place I have seen them is that photo in the manual.

Have been a ham for over 60 years, and am a collector of "boatanchors",i.e. Vintage HF Receivers,and though the HQ 180 and 180A are not built to the quality of a Collins R-390A or the Hammarlund SP-600, the HQ 180 and HQ 180A are excellent HF receivers who hold their own to both the R-390A and SP-600.

In most Hammerlund units, the receiver will come with a 110-V plug. Certain units may be incomplete and require specific parts in order to operate normally. Additionally, you may also need to get the manual separately which may not be included with the hardware unit. Check on eBay for these Hammarlund needs.
