New Testament Hospitality by John Koenig - Goodreads

Hospitality. Hospitality plays no small role in the realm of biblical ethics. Biblical admonitions exhorted the Israelites and the early Christians to practice this virtue. Its practice characterized Abraham ( Gen 18:2-8) and the church leaders ( 1 Tim 3:2; Titus 1:8). And, as hospitality is an attribute of God, one finds its images in the biblical proclamation of the relationship between God and the covenant people.

Romans 15:27 - Yes, they have kindly done this, and, in fact, it was a debt they owed them. For seeing that the Gentiles have been admitted in to partnership with the Jews in their spiritual blessings, they in turn are under an obligation to render sacred service to the Jews in temporal things.

Partnership in the Bible (5 instances)

In the New Testament the duty was reemphasized for the Christian community. Romans 12:13 says, "Contribute to the needs of the saints, practice hospitality." Literally it says, "Pursue hospitality." And the verb implies continuous action.

Strategic Hospitality | Desiring God

New Testament hospitality does not happen for an hour or two a week; it is a lifestyle of openness and availability that flows from a deep conviction that because we love God, therefore we actively and inclusively love people. When Paul told the Romans to "practice hospitality" (12:13), he actually said pursue hospitality.

Is Your Church Pursuing Biblical Hospitality? – Charisma ...

The word translated hospitality occurs six times in the New Testament – less frequently than such words as faith, love and holy. We are not to conclude from the infrequent use of the word that hospitality is not important. Christian hospitality is vital to the body of Christ. It is one of the most basic graces of the Christian life.
