In The Two Tasks of the Christian Scholar, William Lane Craig and Paul M. Gould, with a cadre of academics,
take the work of Charles Malik and propose the place and participation of the Christian in the academy. What they propose is specifically Christian, without compromise and without equivocation.

[SOUND] We can think of leadership as really involving two critical tasks. One of the critical tasks is to make decisions. Leaders have to make decisions about where to go, and they have to make decisions about how to get there. The other critical task for leaders is to implement those decisions.

The purpose of the Two Tasks Institute (TTI) is to re-establish the Christian voice, conscience, and
imagination within the western world so that Christ will be seen as brilliant and beautiful, Christianity viewed as

These forty tasks are all concerned with two prime objectives; the wedding feast and the grooming of the giant on the night of his daughter's wedding, which ultimately requires the hunting of the Twrch Trwyth to obtain the tonsorial equipment lodged between the boar's ears. This is the ultimate challenge and the climax to the whole tale.
